

2017 ARCHITECTURE SUMMER CAMP

PROJECT PIPELINE CAMP is a process driven architecture camp for Chicago students. Students will be introduced to the concepts, professionals, and opportunities that make up the design profession. Students will work individually and collaboratively to address community focused issues through creativity and design innovation.

Daily activities include hands-on activities and technical working sessions to encourage students to synthesize and interpret new information. By the end of camp, Pipeline students will have created the new building blocks of a better city, and have designed a community that reflects their academic, cultural, and design interests!
